STATINTL Dear Russ:

STATINTL

STATINTL [REDACTED] will be arriving in London on August 21, 1947 to take up duty as Administrative Assistant. Her travel orders are from Washington^{to} London. [REDACTED] has raised the point that her duty in London will be of a very temporary nature - not more than ten days before removal to the office [REDACTED] and requested that her orders be amended to read from Washington [REDACTED] This would have enabled her to draw per diem while in London.

STATINTL

STATINTL Our official request for such an amendment was refused.

Therefore, I should just like to suggest to you, if possible, you shoot [REDACTED] soon after her arrival. She has figured that ten days in London with hotel bills and incidental expenses will cost her about $50.00 more than she will draw in her overseas allowance, and for that reason she was anxious to have the orders amended.

Sincerely,

STATINTL [REDACTED]

Acting Chief, FBIF.b
